A Study in Contrasts

“We have the Left routinely speaking of me and of others as Christian Nationalists, as if we’re supposed to be running from that. And you know, I’m not about to run from that” - Al Mohler, June 2022.

“We have to understand that nationalism is always a clear and present danger. It’s especially clear in the 20th century when nationalism took various, very deadly forms.” - Al Mohler, January 2021

Can We Claim Christian Nationalism Isn't Christian?

Christians Against Christian Nationalism

“As Christians, our faith teaches us everyone is created in God’s image and commands us to love one another. As Americans, we value our system of government and the good that can be accomplished in our constitutional democracy.”

“Christian nationalism seeks to merge Christian and American identities, distorting both the Christian faith and America’s constitutional democracy. Christian nationalism demands Christianity be privileged by the State and implies that to be a good American, one must be Christian. It often overlaps with and provides cover for white supremacy and racial subjugation.”

White Evangelicals

“Nationalism is a totalistic political religion that is inconsistent with orthodox Christianity, a false religion that places the nation in the place of the church and the leader in place of God.” - Paul Miller, What's Wrong With Christian Nationalism

“[Christian Nationalism] turns the church into a captive servant to what can only be called an idol” and warps “our understanding of the very core of the gospel: the cross of Jesus Christ.” - Russell Moore, Christianity Today
